Arts Council of Wales Privacy Policy

Privacy Policy Statement

This policy establishes how the Arts Council of Wales handles the information we learn about you when you visit our site and it is endorsed by the Chief Executive and Senior Management Team. This policy was first issued in April 2005, and this revision was conducted in August 2010.

Protecting the privacy and personal data of our visitors is of the utmost importance to us. Protecting your privacy and your personal data is an important aspect of the way we create, organise and implement our activities on-line and off-line.

The specific practices outlined in this privacy statement apply to the Arts Council of Wales website as well as Wales Arts International and Night Out.

Information about our Organisation

The Arts Council of Wales is responsible for funding and developing the arts in Wales. It became accountable to the National Assembly for Wales on 1 July 1998 when responsibility was transferred from the Secretary of State for Wales. The Welsh Assembly Government provides Arts Council of Wales with money to fund the arts in Wales and, as an Assembly Government Sponsored Body (AGSB), Arts Council of Wales is responsible to the Welsh Assembly Government for the way in which this money is spent.

Arts Council of Wales is also the distributor of Lottery money for the arts in Wales. The Department of Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS) based in London allocate national Lottery funds to Arts Council of Wales.

Arts Council of Wales works with many partners in carrying out its national responsibility for developing and funding the arts in Wales and advising the Welsh Assembly Government on issues associated with the arts. In achieving its aims for the arts in Wales, Arts Council of Wales is indebted to its partners in the professional, community and voluntary arts, local authorities and other sectors for their vital co-operation and contributions.

Arts Council of Wales's aims and objectives are set out in its Charter.

Arts Council of Wales is managed by its Council, which meets regularly each year. The Welsh Assembly Government appoints council members.

The Senior Management Team oversees the day-to-day running of the Arts Council of Wales.

Arts Council of Wales staff are based in offices in Cardiff, Colwyn Bay and Carmarthen.

Data Collection and Purpose Specification

In general you can browse the Arts Council of Wales Web site without disclosing any personal information about yourself.

Our website enables you to post information to be accessed by others, subject to our approval. When you do so, other visitors may collect the data you have submitted.

We do not automatically log personal data nor do we link information automatically logged by other means with personal data about specific individuals.

We use cookies to store personal data nor do we link non-personal information stored in cookies with personal data about specific individuals.

We collect the personal data that you may volunteer while using our services.

We do not collect information about our visitors from other sources, such as public records or bodies, or private organisations.

We may collect and use personal data for the additional purpose of populating mailing lists. If we wish to use your personal data for a new purpose, we offer you the means to consent to this new purpose by indicating in a box at the point on the site where personal data is collected.

Cookies

As described above, we sometimes collect anonymous information from visits to our site to help us provide a better service. For example, we may keep track of the domains from which people visit and we may also measure visitor activity on the Arts Council of Wales website, but we do so in ways that keep the information anonymous. We use the information that we collect to measure the number of visitors to the different areas of our site, and to help us make our site more useful to visitors. This includes analysing these logs periodically to measure the traffic through our servers, the number of pages visited and the level of demand for pages and topics of interest. The logs may be preserved indefinitely and used at any time and in any way to prevent security breaches and to ensure the integrity of the data on our servers.

We collect this anonymous information through the use of various technologies, one of which is called "cookies". A cookie is an element of data that a Web site can send to your browser, which may then be stored on your hard drive.

Visitor's Choice

Registering on our site is optional. If you choose not to register or provide personal information, you can still use the Arts Council of Wales website.

Confidentiality / Security

We intend to protect the quality and integrity of your personal information. Arts Council of Wales has implemented technologies and security policies to protect the stored personal data of our users from unauthorised access, improper use, alteration, unlawful or accidental destruction and accidental loss. We will continue to enhance our security procedures as new technology becomes available.

Arts Council of Wales's employees and processors who have access to personal data are obliged to respect the privacy of our visitors and the confidentiality of their personal data.

We ensure that your personal data will not be disclosed to third party institutions and authorities except if required by law or other regulation.

Privacy Compliance

Our Privacy Policy is compliant with the following legislation:

- Data Protection Act
- Freedom of Information Act 2000
- Public Records Act 1958 and 1967

Access to your Personal Data

You can ask us whether we are keeping personal data about you, and you can also request a copy of that personal data. Before sending you any personal data, we will ask you to provide proof of your identity. If you are not able to provide proof of your identity, we reserve the right to refuse to send you the personal data.

We will make every effort to respond in a timely manner to your requests or to correct inaccuracies in your personal information. At any time, you may request that we delete or correct your personal information in our records. For such requests, please refer to the contact details under Privacy Support
